NADA Miami Beach: A Top Ten

by brian boucher 12/07/12

Taking place for the 10th year at the Deauville Beach Resort, the NADA Miami Beach fair (organized by the New Art Dealers Association) offers a more relaxed and spunky vibe than Art Basel Miami Beach, which takes place at the convention center. The galleries are younger, but some of the same buyers, like Bed Bath and Beyond founder Marty Eisenberg, and London's Poju and Anita Zabłudowicz, were seen roaming the sales floor.

These works or booths caught A.i.A.'s eye.

Martin Soto Climent at Clifton Benevento, New York You could have missed Climent's sculptural installation, Delivery, tucked away in a tiny mini-booth at Clifton Benevento's stand. A number of paper bags used for food delivery stand upside down on the floor, showing the names, usually Hispanic in origin, that are stamped on their bottoms. The artist envisions them as factory workers where the bags are produced, and will continue to add to the piece after it's purchased.
